1. 1

Use cucumber slices. Cucumber slices have long been used to reduce puffiness and refresh the appearance of skin around the eyes, providing a fast "pick-me-up" for tired and puffy eyes. Place a slice over each eye, extending over the darkened area. Do this daily, coupled with lying down for 10-15 minutes. Keep your eyes closed.

2. 2

Apply cool tea bags or an ice cube wrapped in soft cloth to your eyes daily. The tannin in tea bags reduces swelling and discoloration. Lie down, preferably in the morning, and leave the cool and damp caffeinated tea bags over your eyes for about 10-15 minutes. Keep your eyes closed. You can refrigerate them overnight so they will be ready in the morning.

Make a saline solution. Add 2 cups water with a 1/4 teaspoon of sea salt^[9] and/or a half tea-spoon of baking soda in one of your nostrils. Have your head tilted to the side so that the water comes out the other nostril. It's best used when you're experiencing nasal congestion.

4. 4

Use a potato. Place one uncooked potato into a liquidizer and liquidize the whole potato. Scoop out and place the pureed potato on your closed eyes. Keep it there for 30 minutes, lying on your back. Wash it off with warm water. This method works well for some people.

5. 5

Use a frozen spoon. Put a spoon in the freezer for 10-15 minutes. Take it out and cover the circles with it. Hold it there until the spoon is warm again.

Home Remedies to Get Rid of Under Eye Wrinkles

There are various homemade remedies that can help reduce wrinkles. Here are a few remedies that help in reducing the effect of old age on eyes. Since the area near and around eyes is sensitive, it is advisable to first check on a small area before applying anything to the entire surface.

Grape Seed Oil

Grape seed oil has skin moisturizing and nourishing properties. It is especially effective for repair of the skin around the eyes and in the repair of stretch marks. This natural ingredient helps to combat wrinkles and rejuvenate the skin. Grape seed oil is rich in antioxidants such as proanthocyanidins, which help in reversing the damages of skin aging. That is why many women use grape seed oil for wrinkles. If applied on dry skin, it keeps the skin hydrated, and as everybody knows, hydrated skin is less likely to get fine lines and wrinkles than a dry one.

Vitamin E

Vitamin E can also help reduce and avoid under eye wrinkle. Vitamin E is an antioxidant and the oil is very thick, so it hydrates dry skin very well. Vitamin E will penetrate your skin with powerful antioxidants and will lubricate the delicate eye area, help wrinkles appear less noticeable, and help prevent the formation of new wrinkles. Each night before going to bed, squeeze the liquid out from the vitamin E capsule and smear it under your eyes where you notice the wrinkles. Using the grape or pineapple during the day and vitamin E at night will show faster results.

Coconut Oil

Coconut oil works wonders for wrinkles and wrinkle prevention. Massaging coconut oil into the area of your skin that is wrinkled, under the eye, will help. After using coconut oil for a week, you will begin to see results. Continue using coconut oil on a daily basis to prevent under eye wrinkles from coming back in the future.

Avocados

Avocados are great for your skin. It decreases under eye wrinkles very effectively. Take some mashed avocado and apply it around your eyes. As the natural oil contained in the avocado helps turn on your skin's natural oil production, the skin looks younger and more attractive

Cucumber

You may use cucumber to deal with your wrinkled eye. This is one of the most effective natural home remedies not just for under eye wrinkles but for crow's feet. Put cucumber slices on your eyes. The cucumber slices will reduce the eye wrinkles, fine lines, and puffiness so your eyes feel reenergized afterwards.

Lemon Juice

You can also use lemon juice for reducing wrinkles around the eyes. Dip a cotton ball in lemon juice and apply around your eyes twice daily morning and at night. Make sure you do not get the lemon juice in your eyes. After a few weeks, you will find a noticeable reduction in wrinkles.

Castor Oil

Castor oil is one of the oldest known wrinkle treatments. It helps to heal under eye wrinkles. Apply and massage a few drops of castor oil to your under eye area at night after cleansing your face. This will keep skin smooth and supple and reduce signs of aging. You should repeat this treatment 1 to 2 times per week after eye wrinkles have diminished to keep under eye wrinkles from redeveloping.

These are just a few of the useful remedies that help to remove under eye wrinkles. You may try the above-mentioned natural home remedies for wrinkles and keep watching your under eye wrinkles and lines vanish.
